

Wow! a baby panda

Panda is endangered species protected by world organization, and other countries cannot own them, other than China. Occasionally China lend them to a country as a symbol of friendship. Due to the reason that they're protected species and diplomatic standpoint, their health is a significant matter for counties who temporary rent. In Korea, therefore, to build the most suitable environment, 15 Panda experts worldwide gathered, and Danpal Product was chosen for that environment. And the panda couple have well grown up for the last 6 years, and their baby panda was born. The new born panda is the proof that Panda world built with Danpal product is optimal place for them. Since pandas are required extremely sensitive care, the environment covered with Danpal products can be best used for health and lives of any creatures like human and animals.